Reprint of the original, first published in 1874. Excerpt from A Treatise on Extraordinary Legal Remedies: Embracing Mandamus, Quo Warranto and Prohibition Since the publication of the second edition of this work in March, 1884, nearly twelve hundred decisions bearing upon the topics of which it treats have appeared in the reports, and are embodied in the following pages. This large increase in material has compelled a thorough revision of the entire work, and much new matter has been added both to the text and to the notes. As in the former editions, the work is divided into two parts, the first treating of the law of mandamus, the second of the law of quo warranto and prohibition. Especial attention is called to the fact that the index is similarly divided, the index to part first embracing the subject of mandamus, and that to part second including the subjects of quo warranto and prohibition. A rollicking collection of barely believable stories from five centuries of legal history – you'll be gripped by these tales of murder, intrigue, crime, punishment and the pursuit of justice. Meet the only dead parrot ever to give evidence in a court of law, the doctor with the worst bedside manner of all time, the murderess who collected money from her mummified victim for 21 years, and explore one of the most indigestible dilemmas – if you'd been shipwrecked 2,000 miles from home, would you have eaten Parker the cabin boy? The tales within these pages are bizarre, fascinating, hilarious and, most importantly, true. Revised, redesigned and updated for a new generation of legal eagles, this book is the perfect gift for lawyers, armchair detectives and true crime aficionados everywhere. This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it. "Extraordinary Justice seeks to fill an important gap in our understanding of what military tribunals are, how they function, and their relative successfulness in rendering justice in the extreme conditions occasioned by war, by placing them in comparative and historical context. Peter Judson Richards examines the tribunals as a national response to the incidents of war in four conflicts: the American Civil War, the British experience in the Boer War, the French practices of the First World War, and the allied measures of the Second World War." "Richards also considers the larger political, legal, and military context, addressing the scholarly and policy debates that invariably arise with the implementation of these extraordinary measures. While acknowledging the mixed record of the national tribunals, he concludes that enduring elements in the character of warfare, of justice, and the nature of political reality together justify their continued use."--BOOK JACKET. Wade, John, [Compiler and Editor]. The Extraordinary Black Book: An Exposition of Abuses in Church and State, Courts of Law, Representation, Municipal and Corporate Bodies; With a Precis of the House of Commons, Past, Present, and to Come. A New Edition, Greatly Enlarged and Corrected to the Present Time, by the Original Editor. London: Published by Effingham Wilson, 1832. xxxii, 683 pp. Reprinted 2004 by The Lawbook Exchange, Ltd. LCCN 2003052768. ISBN 1-58477-362-6. Cloth. $125. * Reprint of the final revised and expanded edition. Especially significant because it had a direct influence on legislation, this "Bible of the Reformers" is a model of investigatory pamphleteering in the cause of representative democracy. The long struggle to transform Great Britain into a modern state was effected primarily through the gradual expansion of the electorate, which was accomplished through the Reform Acts of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. In the earlier era, as the growth of industry shook the traditional agrarian economy dominated by the landholding aristocracy, the accompanying campaign to transform government by weaning power from traditional loci was conducted through a mass of books, pamphlets and other printed matter. The Extraordinary Black Book, which went through several editions between 1820 and 1832, was the most important of these. As the editor explained: "government has been a corporation, and had the same interests and the same principles of action as monopolists. It has been supported by other corporations; the Church has been one, the Agriculturists another, the Boroughs a third, the East-India Company a fourth, and the Bank of England a fifth: all these, and interests like these, constituted the citadel and out-works of its strength, and the first object of each has been to shun investigation. We have, however, rent the veil..." (Advertisement to the New Edition, iv-v). Printing and the Mind of Man calls this "a massive compendium of all the abuses, electoral, ecclesiastical, legal which they sought to abolish" 1967:180. This book is the first comprehensive study on the work and functioning of the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia (ECCC). The ECCC were established in 2006 to bring to trial senior leaders and those most responsible for serious crimes committed under the notorious Khmer Rouge regime. Established by domestic law following an agreement in 2003 between the Kingdom of Cambodia and the UN, the ECCC's hybrid features provide a unique approach of accountability for mass atrocities. The book entails an analysis of the work and jurisprudence of the ECCC, providing a detailed assessment of their legacies and contribution to international criminal law. The collection, containing 20 chapters from leading scholars and practitioners with inside knowledge of the ECCC, discuss the most pressing topics and its implications for international criminal law. These include the establishment of the ECCC, subject matter crimes, joint criminal enterprise and procedural aspects, including questions regarding the trying of frail accused persons and the admission of torture statements into evidence. Simon M. Meisenberg is an Attorney-at-Law in Germany, formerly he was a Legal Advisor to the ECCC and a Senior Legal Officer at the Special Court for Sierra Leone. Ignaz Stegmiller is Coordinator for the International Programs of the Faculty of Law at the Franz von Liszt Institute for International and Comparative Law, Giessen, Germany.
