Luminous Pathways Apr 30 2023 In Luminous Pathways, the author presents a panoply of human feelings toward life experiences.A poetic phenomenology perspective that warrants our inquiries is deeply rooted, and streaming within these pages. The poet, in this process, seems to speak about himself or is speaking for or about others. That is a sound and reasonable problem. The solution is to recognize that Luminous Pathways offers an opportunity to find a privileged place that each one of us possesses to realize there is a sweet, impolite, contemplative, visionary corner in our minds or hearts craving for poetry, and poetry advocacy. This is not a book about poetic authority. The possibility of speaking for others, or self, touches essentially on the veracity that human life is paved with dramas, disagreements, joy, and fulfillment. The author invites you to be absorbed in the reading.

Historical Studies in the Physical Sciences, Volume 7 Aug 11 2021 The first article in this volume, by Tetu Hirose, is a definitive study of the genesis of Einstein's theory of relativity. Other articles treat topics—theoretical, experimental, philosophical, and institutional—in the history of physics and chemistry from the researches of Laplace and Lavoisier in the eighteenth century to those of Dirac and Jordan in the twentieth century. Contents: The Ether Problem, the Mechanistic World View, and the Origins of the Theory of Relativity (Tetu Hirose); Kinstein's Early Scientific Collaboration (Lewis Pyenson); Max Planck's Philosophy of Nature and His Elaboration of the Special Theory of Relativity (Stanley Goldberg); The Concept of Particle Creation before and after Quantum Mechanics (Joan Brombery); Chemistry as a Branch of Physics: Laplace's Collaboration with Lavoisier (Henry Guerlac); Mayer's Concept of "Force": The "Axis" of a New Science of Physics (P. M. Heimann); Debates over the Theory of Solution: A Study of Dissent in Physical Chemistry in the English-Speaking World in the Late Nineteenth and Early Twentieth Centuries (R. G. A. Dolby); The Rise of Physics Laboratories in Britain (Romualdas Sviedrys); The Establishment of the Royal College of Chemistry: An Investigation of the Social Context of Early-Victorian Chemistry (Gerrylynn K. Roberts) Originally published in 1976. The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print-on-demand technology to again make available previously out-of-print books from the distinguished backlist of Ezra Pound and Confucianism Mar 25 2020 In Ezra Pound and Confucianism, Feng Lan offers the first study of Ezra Pound's project of establishing a Confucian humanism as an alternative to Western modernism. While Pound scholars are familiar with the American poet's commitment to Confucianism, the question of how Confucianism systematically shaped Pound's thoughts has not been convincingly answered. Lan shows that when confronted with what appeared to him a dehumanising modern world, Pound discovered in Confucianism possible solutions to issues that he encountered in language, politics, and religion, which Western intellectual tradition as a whole had failed to provide. By integrating Confucian doctrines with received ideas from Western tradition, Pound developed a humanist discourse and brought it to bear on the historical conditions of his time. The result was a discourse characterized primarily by the following beliefs: the human mind as the source of creation, the individual's moral will as the basis of truth and social order, the human partnership with the world of nature, the self-perfectibility of human beings, and their innate capability for internal transcendence in spiritual life. Lan examines the strategies with which Pound reconstructed Confucianism into a systematic modern discourse, focusing on his controversial translation of Confucian scriptures, his rethinking of the nature of language and poetry, his political theory of the individual and the state, and his formulation of an unorthodox spirituality. Situating Pound's works in diverse cultural, historical, and intellectual contexts, Ezra Pound and Confucianism demonstrates that, despite its frequent divergence from the Confucian canon, Pound's Confucian humanism gives his poetry an ideological coherence, enriches the Western humanist tradition, and asserts its relevance to the historical and cross-cultural development of Confucianism in modern times.

Relativity and Geometry Mar 06 2021 Relativity and Geometry aims to elucidate the motivation and significance of the changes in physical geometry brought about by Einstein, in both the first and the second phases of relativity. The book contains seven chapters and a mathematical appendix. The first two chapters review a historical background of relativity.

Chapter 3 centers on Einstein's first Relativity paper of 1905. Subsequent chapter presents the Minkowskian formulation of special relativity. Chapters 5 and 6 deal with Einstein's search for general relativity from 1907 to 1915, as well as some aspects and subsequent developments of the theory. The last chapter explores the concept of simultaneity, geometric conventionalism, and a few other questions concerning space time structure, causality, and time.

Concerto to the Memory of an Angel Aug 23 2022 The title story is the tale of two friends with very different personalities—one competitive and aggressive, the other kind and disinterested. They are confronted with circumstances that lead to a catharsis in which both men will move beyond their predetermined roles. Another story, "The Return," introduces a father whose work takes him far from home for months at a time. Over the years, the names, faces and personalities of his wife and children have blurred in his memory, a fact that comes cruelly to light when, while on a trip, he learns that one of his daughters has died but can't recall exactly which one it is. In his confusion he begins asking himself which daughter he would miss most—a heartless question but one that will bring him to recognize his failings as a man and as a father.

Consolation Jun 28 2020

L'autrice de Deux petits pas sur le sable mouillé livre un récit lumineux qui aide à vivre avec la douleur. Le récit tisse avec grâce des scènes vécues et des réflexions qui touchent toujours juste. Anne-Dauphine Julliand évoque ses deux filles, Thaïs et Azylis, mais aussi Loïc, son mari, Gaspard, son fils aîné, et enfin Arthur, le petit dernier. Elle rend hommage à tous les consolants : une sœur qui vous rend dans les bras, une infirmière qui s'assoit sur le bord du lit et prend juste le temps" d'être là ". Elle a le don de ces scènes courtes qu'elle rend inoubliables. Anne-Dauphine Julliand refuse l'idée selon laquelle la douleur doit s'effacer une fois " le travail du deuil " accompli. Pour elle, les pages ne se tournent pas, elles s'ajoutent. La vie se complique, et tout s'entremêle. Elle ne juge pas, donne des clés, apprend à être avec la douleur, la sienne et celle des autres. " Ne me secouez pas, je suis plein de larmes ", écrivait Henri Calet. " Si on ne me touche pas, je meurs ", lui répond Anne-Dauphine Julliand. Plus jamais les lecteurs de ce livre hésiteront à serrer dans leurs bras celui ou celle qui souffre. C'est une déclaration pour le droit de pleurer.
